Living Out Loud! Root and Reboot

Back of all form, there is a Divine Substance. Hid within every appearance there is an adequate cause. If we judge by the appearance alone, as though it were self-created, we are mistaking the shadow for the Substance.

Are We Open for a New Year?

It is New Year's again, and I sit here thinking about what to even write about. I mean, it has all been said before, right?

Joyfully, one simple Google search led me to an article by Glamour.com, and I discovered there are so many interesting and diverse ways to celebrate the new year! In the Philippines, on New Year's Eve, families share 12 round fruits. The roundness of the fruits, like that of coins, represents prosperity. In Greece, the New Year's Day custom is hanging an onion outside your door for good luck in the new year. In Mexico, people spend New Year's Eve cooking, specifically tamales, sharing them with loved ones, which are then eaten on New Year's Day! The Japanese follow a tradition that dates back to around the 1200s. Eating a warm bowl of soba noodles is said to be tied to the Buddhist temple giving noodles to the poor. Also, "because the long thin noodles are firm yet easy to bite, it is believed eating them symbolizes a literal break away from the old year." Of course, in the United States, we gather together and watch the ball drop from Times Square to ring in the New Year!

How fascinating to learn there are so many different ways to understand one event, such as celebrating the New Year. To think that I started off feeling as if there was nothing new to know! My lesson, or takeaway, after reading this article, is to question myself about how often I limit my ability to experience Life more fully because of limiting beliefs. While thoughts and beliefs, such as "I already know this," or "What else can be said about...," are not wrong, they certainly can and will limit my experience of the Infinite Creative Source that is just waiting to share Itself with and through me. Oh, how I love rediscovering simple spiritual tools and ideas that, when used regularly, provide profound results.

Let us spend time each day thinking about something that we always do in one manner, but could do in a new and fun way. Let us align with the Infinite Divine Creativity and discover a freer, fuller, more expanded life! And as our spiritual community and home continue to grow and evolve, let us carry with us the new Global Theme for 2023, "Living Out Loud!" Every day there are infinite possibilities to choose from, so why unconsciously repeat the same thing, especially if we do not prefer it?

I discovered diverse ways of celebrating the New Year after one internet search. As I release my limiting beliefs of stagnation and stay open to abundance and flow, I wonder what else I will discover this New Year!

Special Note: Starting Jan 1, we will no longer begin service with meditation. We will begin the livestream at 10:55am with announcements and the video of our last social gathering; service will begin as usual at 11am. ## 2023 - Living Out Loud!

The Old Man in the Sky is dead. Long live the Spirit, the Source, the Seat of Consciousness. Begin your year Living Out Loud the way we are intended to do, with Divine Intelligence as the Center of our being.

January 2023 Weekly Talks

Root and Reboot

We begin the year as many of us do with an examination of the fundamental principles of Science of Mind, this time with inspiration gleaned from not only the first chapters of the textbook, but heavily informed by the companion book Living the Science of Mind. This month we focus on the universality of this teaching, with an emphasis on the truth that we are not only of Spirit, but also in Spirit. As we remind ourselves of our Divine Essence, we bring together the parts that call us to be personally responsible for our part in this world, while at the same time extending our generosity of new-found and deepening spiritual living so that we can benefit and enrich the whole of humanity, this earth's creatures, and the Earth itself.

CSLSG Senior Minister Reverend Joe Kovach

January 1st - God is a Concept

There is only One God / Supreme Good, and that Good is my life right now. When we think of God as a concept (to borrow John Lennon's famous words), we free ourselves from the yoke of human religious history. Instead of God being "out there", God as a concept (or as Holmes liked to say, an "It") in our world, allows us to consider God as a creative force in our lives. It is the essence of who we are, and it is a universal principle that exists in and through all people throughout all time.

[Special Note: New Year's Day service will stream as usual on Facebook and YouTube, but it will be prerecorded. And there will be no Zoom conversation afterward.]

January 8th - The Universal Voice

As God is, so I am. This is one of the fundamental truths of our teaching. Each one of us is divinely connected to that One Source – that one Divine Intelligence. Traditionally, our teaching has focused on the power of the individual. This has led some to criticize us as being self-centered and unconcerned with our neighbors. Holmes spoke very clearly that as I am, so we all are. Our goal is to realize not only our own individual power, but to see and work in concert with that same Power that exists in and through all souls we meet.

January 15th - The Internal Song

People often talk of old tapes that run through their minds. Perhaps it's the voice of a parent or teacher, who was trying to guide you in your youth, however unskillfully. This voice can later become internalized as a beating drum that undermines our choice to grow and to experience a more fulfilling life. Spiritual Mind Treatment, a key practice in Religious Science, counters and even silences this ego voice by replacing these tapes with affirmative prayer that supports the individual. Through ongoing practice, we begin to hear more clearly the internal song that continuously plays with and for us.

January 22nd Guest Speaker Rev. Dr. Patrick Harbula

Singing With Gratitude

Gratitude is one of the most fundamental spiritual practices in our teaching. After all, if God is all there is, then doesn't it make sense to say thank you on a regular basis? Let's take a deep look at this practice of gratitude – and how it fits into our understanding of affirmative prayer.

Welcome to our new Guest Speaker: Dr. Patrick J. Harbula has been a leader and teacher in the human potential movement, meditation trainer, and life coach for over 30 years. He has presented at hundreds of new thought centers around the country and internationally. He is the author of the acclaimed book, The Magic of the Soul: Applying Spiritual Power to Daily Living and Meditation: The Simple and Practical Way. Patrick continues to reach hundreds of thousands with his empowering message of living one's passion through applying life purpose. He is the founder of Living Purpose Institute, a teaching organization dedicated to promoting individual and collective success through the power of life purpose.*

Celebrating Life As Source

We have spent this month reminding ourselves of who we are, through the basics of Science of Mind. Today is our final step – and it's the most important one of all. We prepare ourselves to surrender into our life – and into this year. What if we were to surrender to Spirit/Source Itself entirely? This is what it takes to Live Out Loud! When we surrender our falsehoods, our fears, and our doubt, we free ourselves to live out loud in celebration. Every day becomes a day to celebrate the simplicity and the beauty of life itself.
