Standing on Shiva

When the power comes from within us and we claim it as our own, then we no longer have to affirm ourselves by dominating others.
The irony is that we are actually afraid of our own power.

July 16th Guest Speaker
Eugene Holden, RScP
Standing on Shiva

There is a Hindu story of a battle taking place between the gods and demons. The demons were winning, and the gods turned to Durga, known as the goddess of compassion and mothering to do something. Out of her forehead sprang the fierce warrior goddess Kali. Kali proceeded to destroy the demons, but in her frenzy then began killing everyone. Shiva, the destroyer of illusion, threw himself under her feet, allowing her to come to herself and stop mindlessly killing. When we go to war with conditions, we can get lost in the battle, forgetting our real purpose. Grounding in Truth brings us back to remembering.
